To: ALL ALASKAN LAW ENFORCEMENT AGENCIES AND OTHERS

The Criminal Justice Planning Agency is in its fifth year of publishing Crime In Alaska. Twenty-one reporting agencies contributed to the 1979 effort and their efforts are appreciated in providing us with the ability to make such a comprehensive report.

In the latter half of this report, you will note a difference from previous years in the presentation of information for individual agencies. This is a result of using updated information processing equipment which allows us the capability of tailoring data formats to your special needs. If you have special requests concerning the 1979 data, we will attempt to provide timely responses to your requests.

If there is any information we failed to include in Crime In Alaska or which you feel would be useful to you, please contact Richard Renninger, Research Analyst for the statistical analysis section. We would also appreciate being alerted to any inadvertent errors, submission of suggestions for improvement of the report, and comments concerning which parts of the report are most useful to your agency.

Sincerely,

Charles G. Adams, Jr.
Executive Director

CRIME IN ALASKA

The major source of data used to measure the trend and distribution of crime in Alaska is the Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) Program. Under this program, statistics are compiled by law enforcement agencies as crimes are reported. Seven offense categories, selected because they represent the most common local problems, have been defined as Crime Index Offenses. They are serious both because of their nature and the frequency with which they occur. The offenses of murder, forcible rape, robbery and aggravated assault make up the violent crimes. The offenses of burglary, larceny-theft and motor vehicle theft make up the property crimes.

The UCR Program was established in 1930 by the International Association of Chiefs of Police (IACP) when the need was recognized for crime statistics through which they could gain a basic understanding of the nature and scope of the nation's crime problem. The FBI took over the responsibility of receiving, tabulating and publishing the crime statistics which are voluntarily submitted by police agencies.

The statistics are issued annually during August by the FBI in the publication, Crime in the United States. The statistics for Alaska are compiled by the research unit of the Criminal Justice Planning Agency and are presented to the Governor's Commission for the Administration of Justice preceding national publication.

Several problems exist within the UCR Program which bring it under criticism. One of these criticisms is that the population bases which are used in computing the crime rates are sometimes only estimates. This is especially true in non-census years. Also, crime may be either undiscovered and therefore unreported or, as recent victimization surveys have indicated, unreported even though discovered.

Despite these problems, UCR statistics do represent the basis for public awareness of crime and are the major source for a statistical understanding of the national crime problem. It is more reasonable to improve the existing program than to scrap it in favor of a new collection system which might, in the end, prove to be more fallible.

CRIME INDEX RATE

One of the basic measurements used in crime statistics is the crime index rate. This rate is defined as the number of incidents per 100,000 inhabitants. Since it relates the incidence of crime to the total population, it provides a means of comparing current and historical data for the State of Alaska and also allows us to compare our rates with nationwide data.

During 1979, the Crime Index rate for Alaska was 6113.4 per 100,000 persons. This represents a seven percent increase over the 5,714.5 rate for 1978. Since 1977 there has been an increase in the number of police departments submitting crime statistics to the Criminal Justice Planning Agency. The new participants are Nome, North Pole, Seward, Cordova, and North Slope Borough. When the number of crimes reported by these police departments are included, the Crime Index rate is 6366.3 or 5% greater than the comparable rate for 1978.

STATEWIDE CRIME INDEX 1973-1979

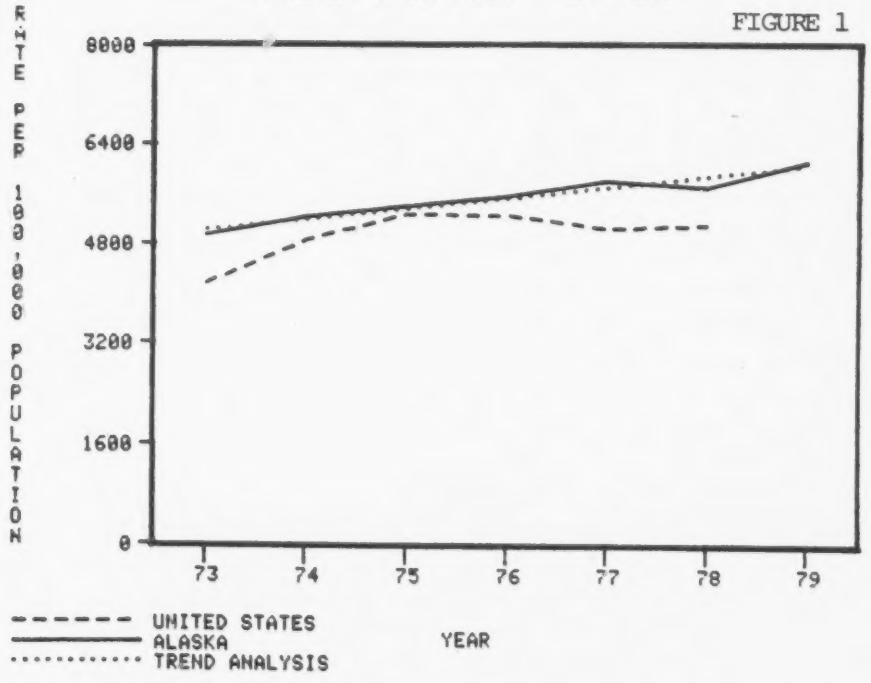

Figures 2, 3 and 4 illustrate the general increases in crime and crime rates since 1973. Crimes reported and crime rates for both violent and property crimes show a general upward trend.

Table 1 provides a detailed breakdown of the reported offenses and crime index rates for 1974-1979. The statistics are divided into sub-groups of violent and property as well as categories of murder, rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny/theft, and motor vehicle theft.

In order to determine the trend of crime in Alaska, the crime index rates for 1976-1979 were used to make a straight-line projection for 1980. This projection shows that the total crime index is predicted to increase by 2% to 6,239.7 offenses per 100,000 persons in 1980. While in line with a general upward trend, the amount of increase projected is significantly less than the 7% increase experienced in 1979.

ALASKA VS. NATIONAL CRIME RATES

Table 3 presents a comparison of Alaska's 1978 crime rates with the rates of a state of similar size, the geographic division, and the entire United States.

The State of Wyoming was selected because its population is comparable to Alaska's, both states looking forward to the 1980 census to make a reliable determination of which has the smallest state population in the United States. For 1978, Alaska's crime rate was found to be 27% greater than that of Wyoming's rate of 4494.6 per 100,000 persons. The Alaska crime rate in each Part I category was greater than that of Wyoming.

Alaska is one of the states included in the Pacific Geographic Division. The remaining states are California, Hawaii, Oregon and Washington. Overall, Alaska's crime rate was 17% less than the Pacific Division rate in 1978. Although variation was found between individual crime categories, the Alaska rate was less in the sub-groups of Violent and Property Crime by 38% and 15% respectively.

When Alaska's rates were compared to those of the U.S., it was found that Alaska's total crime index rate in 1978 was 12% greater. However, the Alaska rate for Violent Crime was 15% less than that of the United States.

Table 4 shows Alaska's ranking among the fifty states on crime rate for each Part I crime category and for Part I crimes overall. Although a slight improvement overall is indicated, Alaska's ranking from 1977 to 1978 increased from thirteenth to sixth for murder while maintaining first place for rape offenses.

CRIME ANALYSIS OF ALASKA'S URBAN CITIES

Reported Offenses

Throughout the remainder of this report, the statistics for the Anchorage, Fairbanks, Juneau and Ketchikan Police Departments will be presented along with the statewide totals. The statistics for the respective Alaska State Trooper detachments have not been included since they are compiled at the broad detachment level and cannot be broken down further.

Table 5 presents the contribution of each city to the crime index offenses which were reported from 1976-1979. The statistics are broken down into the categories of total, violent and property crimes. The contribution of each city has remained relatively constant during this period. Detailed analysis for the state, each city and the rest of the state can be found in Tables 6 through 11.

Crime Rates and Trends

The 1976-1979 crime rates for Anchorage, Fairbanks, Juneau and Ketchikan are presented in Tables 12 through 15. The predicted rates for 1980 and predicted changes in rates between 1979 and 1980 are also presented.

Fairbanks has the greatest predicted change of minus thirty-two percent with Anchorage and Juneau having predicted changes of minus twenty-three and minus fourteen percent, respectively. The prediction for Ketchikan is a fourteen percent increase from the 1979 rate. Projected changes are also shown for each crime index offense, violent crimes, and property crimes.

Tables 16 through 19 present comparisons of the crime rates for Anchorage, Fairbanks, Juneau, and Ketchikan with other United States' cities of similar sizes. These tables indicate that the overall crime rates for these Alaskan cities was greater than those of other similar U.S. cities in 1978.

With generally declining crime rates in Anchorage, the gap between Anchorage and other U.S. cities (100,000-250,000 population) moved from a 31% difference in 1977 to 24% in 1978. Fairbanks and Juneau exhibited similar movement toward average rates for comparable populations with Fairbanks moving from a 23% to a 8% difference and Juneau moving from a 100% to a 93% difference from their comparison groups. Ketchikan, while exhibiting generally higher crime rates in 1978 over those of 1977, moved a few percentage points closer to its comparison group through declines in Aggravated Assault and Motor Vehicle Theft.

In order to compare the crime profiles of Anchorage, Fairbanks, Juneau and Ketchikan, Tables 20 and 21 have been prepared. The tables present rankings by the number of reported offenses, the 1979 crime rates and the change in crime rates between 1978 and 1979.

Ranking by Number of Reported Offenses

The rankings in all categories but murder were in the order of Anchorage first followed by Fairbanks, Ketchikan and Juneau. Under murder, Ketchikan ranked fourth with no reported offenses.

Ranking by Crime Rate

Ketchikan ranked first in crime rates except for the categories of Robbery and Murder where Anchorage and Juneau were the respective leaders. Overall, Ketchikan was followed by Juneau, Anchorage and Fairbanks.

Ranking by Crime Rate Change

Fairbanks had the greatest crime rate change (+6%) in 1979 with a significant increase in property crime (+7%) more than offsetting a 12% decrease in violent crime. Juneau ranked second overall as a result of a 29% increase in violent crime. Anchorage consistently showed a decline across all categories except Robbery which remained essentially static.

CRIMINAL HOMICIDE

DEFINITION: This crime index offense is defined as the willful killing of another. As a general rule, any death due to a fight, argument, quarrel, assault, or commission of a crime is included. Suicides, accidental deaths, assaults to murder and attempted murders are not included.

VOLUME: In 1979, there were sixty-four murders reported in Alaska. None of these murders were in cities new to the UCR program. Murders represented three percent of the total violent crime and less than one percent of the total crime index offenses. Table 22 shows that the number of reported offenses increased fourteen percent over 1978.

NOTE: The numbers in parentheses represent the number of murders which were reported by those cities which participated in the UCR program during 1977, 1978, and 1979.

TREND: In 1979, there were 15.4 murders for every 100,000 Alaskans. This is an increase of nineteen percent over the 12.9 rate for 1978. Figure 5 indicates a predicted rate of 14.0 for 1980 which is a decrease of nine percent.

NATURE OF MURDER: Of the sixty-four murders reported to law enforcement agencies, fifty-five were verified and determined to be actual offenses. Sixty-two percent of the murder victims were male and thirty-eight percent female. Sixty-four percent were white, twenty percent Indian and sixteen percent all other races. The largest number of victims (38%) were in the 18-29 age group.

Rapes represented seventeen percent of the total violent crime and one percent of the total crime index offenses. Table 27 shows that the number of reported rapes increased by thirty-eight percent in the cities which have reported since 1977.

NATURE OF FORCIBLE RAPE: During 1979, seventy-four percent of all forcible rapes were actual rapes by force. The remainder were attempts and assaults to commit forcible rape. Twenty-one percent of the offenses reported to the police were determined to be unfounded. The overall unfounded rate for the total crime index offenses was five percent.

ROBBERY

DEFINITION: Robbery is defined as taking or attempting to take anything of value from the care, custody, or control of a person by force, threat of force, violence, or by putting the victim in fear. It is a vicious type of theft that takes place in the presence of the victim. The victim is directly confronted and threatened with force or the fear that force will be used.

VOLUME: During 1979, there were 458 robberies reported in Alaska. Eleven of these robberies were reported in cities which are new to the UCR program. Robberies represent twenty-one percent of the total violent crimes and two percent of the total crime index offenses. Table 30 shows the number of reported robberies increased by eighteen percent during 1979 in the cities which have reported since 1977.

AGGRAVATED ASSAULT

DEFINITION: Aggravated assault is defined as an unlawful attack by one person upon another for the purpose of inflicting severe bodily injury. It is usually accompanied by the use of a weapon or other means likely to produce death or great bodily harm. Attempts are included since serious personal injury would probably result if the crime was successfully completed. Simple assaults are not included.

VOLUME: During 1979, there were 1,307 aggravated assaults reported. 143 of these assaults were reported in cities new to the UCR program. Aggravated assaults represented fifty-nine percent of the total violent crime and five percent of the total crime index offenses. Table 33 shows that the number of reported aggravated assaults increased by twelve percent during 1979 in cities which have reported since 1977.

MOTOR VEHICLE THEFT

DEFINITION: Motor vehicle theft is defined as the theft or attempted theft of a motor vehicle.

VOLUME: In 1979, there were 2,846 motor vehicle thefts reported in Alaska. 245 of these thefts were reported in cities new to the UCR program. Motor vehicle thefts represent twelve percent of the total property crime and eleven percent of the total crime index offenses. Table 42 shows that the number of reported motor vehicle thefts decreased by five percent in those cities which have reported since 1977.

PROPERTY STOLEN AND RECOVERED

Table 44 presents the value of the property which was stolen while Crime Index Offenses were being committed. It also shows the value of the goods which were recovered. Stolen motor vehicles accounted for thirty-eight percent of the total value stolen. This category was followed by miscellaneous goods (29%), jewelry/precious metals (10%), currency/notes (9%) and T.V., radios, cameras (6%).

An analysis of the value of the property recovered shows that stolen motor vehicles had the greatest recovery rate with eight-five percent. This was followed by miscellaneous goods (21%), T.V., radios, cameras (16%), and consumable goods (13%).

Overall, $14,723,387 worth of goods were stolen. $6,528,929 of these goods (44%) were recovered.
